JACKSON BROWNE WITH DAVID LINDLEY AT THE FOX THEATRE AUGUST 10!

St. Louis, MO/July 9, 2010 — Singer-songwriter JACKSON BROWNE will take to the road this summer with his band and longtime friend and musical co-conspirator DAVID LINDLEY. The tour will stop at the Fabulous Fox Theatre on August 10 at 7:30 p.m. Tickets are on sale now and prices are $58.50, $53.50, $48.50, & $43.50 with a limited number of Gold Circle seats also available. Presented by Fox Concerts.

The Jackson Browne with David Lindley Tour follows the May 11 release of Love Is Strange (Inside Recordings), a 2-CD live set capturing a tour of Spain that Browne and Lindley did in 2006. Accompanying Jackson Browne and David Lindley on tour will be Browne's band of almost 20 years: Kevin McCormick (bass), Mark Goldenberg (guitars), Mauricio Lewak (drums) and Jeff Young (keyboards, backing vocals). They're joined by members (since 2008) Chavonne Stewart and Alethea Mills, vocalists Browne (as a mentor) met in 2001 when they were attending Washington Preparatory High School in South Los Angeles, singing in the school choir.

On record and in performance, Jackson Browne and David Lindley have a musical association reaching back almost 40 years. Regarded as a legendary stringed-instrument virtuoso, Lindley has played on many of Browne's albums, beginning with 1973's For Everyman, and on classics including Late For The Sky and The Pretender (the latter two both on Rolling Stone's list of the 500 Greatest Albums of All Time). Browne also produced Lindley's best-known LP, 1983's acclaimed El Rayo-X.

Prior to 2010's Jackson Browne with David Lindley Tour, the last time the two musicians played live dates together was a 2006 run of concerts in Spain—in grand concert halls, rock venues, and intimate clubs alike. That tour resulted in the 2-CD album Love Is Strange, “En Vivo Con Tino”—featuring Browne and Lindley live with celebrated Spanish percussionist Tino di Geraldo.

In liner notes Browne wrote for Love Is Strange, he considers Lindley's reputation for elusiveness, nearly as mythic as his string-playing prowess. “Why had I not thought of this before? Take him where he doesn't speak the language and he will HAVE TO leave the gig and come with you to the restaurant, or to the club,” says Browne. “This was an unexpected strategy breakthrough in a pursuit that for a legion of friends, disciples and admirers has become known as ‘stalking the wild Lindley.’”

The breakthrough continues with the not-to-be-missed 2010 Jackson Browne with David Lindley Tour.
